The homecoming experiences of female

Saudi Arabian international students

Ruth Gresham

Bachelor of Arts, University of Sydney, Australia

Graduate Diploma in Education, University of Newcastle, Australia

A thesis submitted for the degree of

Master of Philosophy (Social Work)

University of Newcastle

School of Humanities and Social Science

February 2013
DECLARATION

This thesis contains no material which has been accepted for the award of any other degree or diploma in any university or other tertiary institution and, to the best of my knowledge and belief, contains no material previously published or written by another person, except where due reference has been made in the text. I give consent to this copy of my thesis, when deposited in the University Library, being made available for loan and photocopying subject to the provisions of the Copyright Act 1968.

Signed............................................................................

Date.......................................................

Signed.................................................................

Date........................................................................
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Having the opportunity to write this thesis has been a long-held professional dream for me. I would like to thank the following people for their contribution to making this dream a reality.

To my supervisors, Professor Mel Gray, and Dr Jill Gibbons, I extend my heart-felt thanks for your encouragement, guidance and support. Most of all, I thank you for your belief in me.

To my dearest mum Jessie, who passed away in 2011. You taught me to value an education and to always do my best. I dedicate this thesis to you.

To my darling husband, Paul, I thank you for always being there for me, for your love and encouragement.

To my dear friend and mentor, Diana (Maymuna) Rah and her colleagues at the Newcastle Muslim Association, I thank you for sharing your knowledge of Islam with me, for your friendship and support.

To my postgraduate colleagues, I thank you for the fun we have had together, for your friendship and willingness to share your knowledge with me.

Most importantly, I thank my Saudi sisters for trusting me with their stories, adding to my knowledge of the world and allowing me to tell their stories to others.
CONFFERENCE PRESENTATIONS ORIGINATING FROM THIS RESEARCH

ABSTRACT

There is an increasing world-wide trend for people to live overseas and at some point, to return to their countries of origin. The displacement of these individuals has the potential for both disturbing and favourable consequences for themselves and their families, as well as the social and economic fabric of their home and host countries. This thesis explores the experiences of six Saudi Arabian female postgraduate students, as they completed their international education sojourns in Australia and began the repatriation process. It chronicles the participants’ individual perspectives of repatriation, with the aim of reporting descriptively on their experiences. A qualitative methodology involving in-depth, semi-structured interviews with the study’s participants at significant junctures within the repatriation process was the primary data collection method used for this study. The special place of culture and cultural identity was explored throughout, with particular emphasis on how cultural differences were bridged during the research process. The findings of this study are noteworthy for their capacity to augment understandings about the repatriation process; provide descriptions that link expatriate experiences with repatriation outcomes; and generate ideas that might be later used to develop frameworks for improving sojourner readjustment.

Key words: cultural identity, intercultural relations, international sojourn, readjustment, repatriation
LIST OF ABBREVIATIONS

ABS  Australian Bureau of Statistics
AEI  Australian Education International, the international education arm of the Department of Industry, Innovation, Science, Research and Tertiary Education.
CCTV Closed circuit television
ISB  International Student Barometer
KASP King Abdullah Scholarship Programme
KSA  Kingdom of Saudi Arabia
TABLE OF CONTENTS

DECLARATION..................................................................................................................ii
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS ............................................................................................ iii
PUBLICATIONS ORIGINATING FROM THIS RESEARCH ........................................ iv
CONFERENCE PRESENTATIONS ORIGINATING FROM THIS RESEARCH .............v
ABSTRACT....................................................................................................................vi
LIST OF ABBREVATIONS ............................................................................................vii
TABLE OF CONTENTS ..............................................................................................viii
LIST OF TABLES..........................................................................................................xiii
LIST OF FIGURES........................................................................................................xiv

Chapter 1 ..................................................................................................................... 1
   Introduction................................................................................................................1
      The personal motivation for this journey of inquiry .................................................1
   Background for this study .........................................................................................2
      The international education industry in Australia ..................................................2
      Meeting student expectations and sustaining a valuable industry .......................3
   Key junctures in an international education sojourn .................................................4
   Entry transition .......................................................................................................4
   Significance of this study ........................................................................................5
   Re-entry transition: The principal issue under investigation .................................7
   Aims of the study .....................................................................................................7
   Research questions ................................................................................................8
   Theoretical perspectives and conceptual framework ..............................................8
   Methodology ............................................................................................................9
      Sampling and data collection ..............................................................................10
      Data analysis ........................................................................................................10
      Trustworthiness and validity ...............................................................................11
   Working across cultures .........................................................................................11
      Culture and cultural identity ...............................................................................12
   Limitations of this study ........................................................................................13
   Definition of key terms ..........................................................................................14
      International students .........................................................................................14
      Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, KSA, the Kingdom, Saudi Arabia ............................14
      Repatriate, returnee, returning sojourner ...........................................................14
      Repatriation and re-entry ....................................................................................14
      Sojourners .............................................................................................................15
   Outline of this thesis ...............................................................................................15

Chapter 2 ..................................................................................................................... 17
   The context for this story: The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia ......................................17
   Location and demographics ..................................................................................18
   Recent history: A summary ....................................................................................18
      First Saudi State ..................................................................................................18
      Second Saudi State..............................................................................................19
   Modern Kingdom of Saudi Arabia ........................................................................19
   A succession of monarchs .......................................................................................20
Chapter 3 .................................................................................................................. 44
Literature review: Repatriation .................................................................................. 44
Description of repatriation ......................................................................................... 45
   How it feels to come home .................................................................................... 45
   Dimensions of repatriation ................................................................................... 46
   Expectations .......................................................................................................... 47
Stages of readjustment ............................................................................................... 48
Impact of readjustment on returning sojourners ....................................................... 49
   Belonging or not? .................................................................................................. 50
Chapter 6 ................................................................................................................................. 119
Findings Part 1: Descriptive overview of the participants’ international experience ...... 119
Choosing a study destination .............................................................................................. 120
Studying in Australia ........................................................................................................ 122
Observations about the local environment ....................................................................... 123
How locals responded to their presence .......................................................................... 124
Adaptation strategies ......................................................................................................... 125
Adjustment and support ..................................................................................................... 125
Caring for children ........................................................................................................... 128
Preparing children for returning home ............................................................................ 129
Professional experiences and some observations .............................................................. 130
Synopsis of the participants’ experiences in Australia ........................................................ 132

Chapter 7 ................................................................................................................................. 138
Findings Part 2: Repatriation experiences ........................................................................ 138
Primary theme 1: The push and pull of home ................................................................. 140
Secondary theme: Pride in achievements and hopes for the future ................................ 142
Secondary theme: Feelings of fear and powerlessness ...................................................... 151
Primary theme 2: Learning to live at home again ............................................................. 158
The first few months after return: The homecoming experience ..................................... 158
The emotional response to being home ........................................................................... 160
Expectations ....................................................................................................................... 161
The experience for children ............................................................................................... 162
Making sense of the sojourn experience ......................................................................... 164
Putting the international experience into practice ......................................................... 164
Rebuilding relationships with family, friends and colleagues ......................................... 166
Support of religion ............................................................................................................ 168
Lasting memories .............................................................................................................. 168
Advice for others .............................................................................................................. 169
View of the future ............................................................................................................. 170
Conclusion ......................................................................................................................... 171

Chapter 8 .................................................................................................................................. 172
Discussion of findings ....................................................................................................... 172
Major findings .................................................................................................................... 173
Personal growth and identity change ............................................................................... 173
The comfort, frustrations and challenges of being home ................................................ 174
The experiences of children .............................................................................................. 175
Expectations theory .......................................................................................................... 178
Chapter 9  ................................................................................................................................. 203
Conclusions and recommendations ................................................................. 203
Major conclusions ................................................................................................. 203
The international education sojourn as a life-changing experience .................. 203
Importance of individual stories to international education ............................... 206
International education’s profound impact on sojourners’ lives .................... 207
Participants fulfilled the goals of the King Abdullah scholarship programme ... 207
Recommendations for further research ................................................................. 208
Build on the findings of this study ................................................................. 208
Explore the Cultural Identity Model using a larger population sample .......... 209
Investigate the potential of technology ............................................................. 209
Examine how religion affects repatriation outcomes ........................................ 210
The experiences of children ................................................................................. 210
The ripple effect ................................................................................................. 211

Implications for practice .................................................................................... 211
Approach cultural differences from an individual perspective ......................... 211
Building relationships with international students ........................................... 212
Recognise the significance of the international experience ............................ 213
Prepare for homecoming .................................................................................. 214
Recognise the impact of the international experience on children ............... 215
Conclusion ............................................................................................................. 216

REFERENCES ..................................................................................................................... 217

Appendix 1 ...................................................................................................................... 230
Interview schedule ................................................................................................. 230
Appendix 2 ...................................................................................................................... 234
Consent form .......................................................................................................... 234
Appendix 3 ...................................................................................................................... 236
Information statement ............................................................................................ 236
APPENDIX 4 ..................................................................................................................... 240
Glossary ....................................................................................................................... 240
LIST OF TABLES

Table 1: Summary of the categorisations of culture ........................................... 83

Table 2: Summary of participants’ demographic data ........................................ 120

Table 3: Primary and secondary themes .............................................................. 139

Table 4: Indicators that show identity shifts in line with the Cultural Identity Model .......................................................... 193
LIST OF FIGURES

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Figure</th>
<th>Description</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Figure 1</td>
<td>The conceptual evolution of this study</td>
<td>98</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure 2</td>
<td>Flowchart of the research process</td>
<td>99</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure 3</td>
<td>Emotional responses to the sojourn experience, consisting of three phases, early days, during the sojourn, pre-departure</td>
<td>133</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure 4</td>
<td>Oscillation between positive and negative emotions during the early days of the sojourn showed less positive than negative responses</td>
<td>134</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure 5</td>
<td>Emotional responses that carried over into the duration of the sojourn</td>
<td>134</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure 6</td>
<td>Oscillation between positive and negative emotions during the sojourn showing the emergence of more positive feelings</td>
<td>135</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure 7</td>
<td>New emotional responses developed during the sojourn and carried over to pre-departure</td>
<td>135</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure 8</td>
<td>Oscillation between positive and negative emotions prior to departure from Australia showed more positive than negative responses</td>
<td>136</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure 9</td>
<td>How the participants described themselves at the end of the sojourn</td>
<td>136</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure 10</td>
<td>Primary and secondary themes that emerged through the data analysis</td>
<td>140</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>